My 4Rs: Reimagine, Reuse, Reconsider, React

My (Re)Generation Action Story:

My 4R's are Reimagine, Reuse, Reconsider and React. The picture that I drew is a park before and after. On the right side is the world before an after. Reimagine means to imagine what a dirty, polluted world would be like. If we won't keep our world clean we should think about what would happen to Earth when we don't.

Reuse means buy reusable items instead of wasting you money on items that will be wasted in the end. This will help stop wastage. Also this can help stop pollution because, factories that make all of the stuff that we buy, pollute the world.

Reconsider means to consider how your choice will impact the health of our world. This might mean to think about recycling things that need to be recycled instead of not thinking and throwing something in the trash, and composting things like food. This can help make the world clean by helping plants grow better or stop wasting fuel on making items. Think about how you can help.

React means to act to to help the environment. If we can take action Earth can become a better environment.
